SBHCs Make Quality Care Accessible!

Checking his blood sugar is everyday routine for 9-year old Jay (not his real name) thanks to the nurse at the Clifton SBHC. Diagnosed with Type I Diabetes in pre-school, Jay says the nurses at the SBHC keep him away from the hospital. Kathy Roan, Nurse Practitioner, one of the nurses that assists him on a daily basis, says the goal is simple—to make sure Jay and other students who use the center are able to function effectively at school. “They are nice to me and make me feel good, and I thank them for helping me to stay healthy,” he said. For children like Jay, who have a health problem that needs constant monitoring, it can often be difficult to do everything alone, or for the child’s parents to attempt to monitor health conditions while at work. “The whole objective is to keep children healthy so they can learn. We provide a health resource for kids who may not have one,” Roan said.
